the western door and retiring by the eastern door.

ST. PAUL'S CHURCH.

This Edifice's History Indissolubly Linked With That of the Confederacy.

This last event associates St. Paul's with the Confederacy and makes further reference to its history appropriate.

The church was finished about 1845, and its congregation was a colony from the old Commonwealth. The first rector was Rev. Dr. Norwood. He was succeeded by Rev. Dr. Jones. The next rector was Rev. Dr. Minnigerode, President Davis' pastor and now rector emeritus, and he was followed by Rev. Hartley Carmichael, the present rector.

Architecturally, St. Paul's, barring its spire and the recent addition to the rear, made for the purpose of introducing a recess chancel, may be called very free classic. The original design contemplated a pure classic structure, carrying the columns around the two sides after the regular order. The interior is very lofty and airy, and the building will seat about 1,200 persons. President Davis' pew was on the western side of the main aisle, about the centre of the church, and General Lee's on the western side of the east aisle a little further towards the chancel. Some years ago the vestry set apart two windows for stained-glass medallions to General Lee and President Davis respectively. The Lee-Memorial window was put in last year, and the subject is "Moses Resigning His Office in Egypt." At a meeting of the vestry last January Bishop Randolph suggested as the subject of the Davis-Memorial window "Samuel Resigning His Office as Ruler of Israel," and the suggestion was adopted. The window will be on the west side of the church exactly opposite the Lee window, and the design for it has already been prepared.

ST. PAUL'S CHURCH.

Monroe Park has been selected by Mrs. Davis as the spot, where a monument in memory of the late President of the Confederacy will be erected from contributions collected in the various States of the South.

Immediately after the death of President Davis committees in the various States began to collect money for a monument to the memory of the Confederate President. Richmond on December 9th, through her council, had asked that she might become the permanent custodian of the remains, but on the night of December

Grimes' Battery.

Grimes' Battery, of Portsmouth, arrived in Richmond yesterday, and are stopping at Ford's Hotel. They shipped their four guns—two three-inch rifles and two Napoleons—to Richmond a few days ago. The battery is commanded by Captain C. R. Warren and Lieutenants R. J. Colson and W. A. Powell. There are thirty-five men in the battery, and will attract considerable attention in the parade to-day. The list of men are as follows: J. W. Davis, Z. O. Culpeper, J. T. Lassiter, James Lassiter, W. T. Scott, W. W. Warren, W. L. Mathews, J. T. Stafford, John Stappell, W. W. Creech, W. L. Bort, W. O. Stewart, L. L. Reynolds, Paul Bland, George Hutchins, J. M. Whitehead, W. D. Senan, J. B. Brown, C. C. Burns, J. F. McHugh, J. McWilliams, W. I. Anderson, George W. M. Owens, W. J. Thomas, H. A. Shannon, C. H. Warren, Jr., T. B. Jones, T. R. Hahlo, C. W. King, F. Weisendorf and S. H. Simcoe.

She and Friends Came From New York and Are at the Exchange.

Mrs. Jefferson Davis, accompanied by Colonel J. Taylor Wood, Colonel Robert C. Wood and Mr. Clarence Cary, arrived in the city from New York last evening at 9:40 o'clock. They were met at the depot by Major-General T. A. Brander, Colonel Thomas Lewis, Colonel J. N. Stubbs, Colonel J. V. Bidgood, Captain Thomas Ellett, Captain W. G. Waller and others, and driven to the Exchange Hotel, where apartments for the party had been reserved.

A number of Confederate veterans and prominent citizens had assembled at the hotel. Mrs. Davis, however, expressed herself as greatly fatigued from the trip, and went immediately to her apartments.

Colonel J. Taylor Wood and Colonel Robert C. Wood, who accompanied Mrs. Davis on the trip, are the nephews of President Davis' first wife, and the grandsons of Zachary Taylor, late President of the United States.

The suite of rooms set apart for Mrs. Davis at the Exchange were early yesterday decorated with a profusion of flowers sent by the citizens of Richmond.

Mrs. Davis and Miss Wintale occupy parlor No. 14 and chambers 19 and 12 in the Ballard House, while Mr. and Mrs. Hayes have a separate suite with parlor 22. These rooms were nicely furnished for the occasion. They were heavy with the fragrance of blossoms early in the day, and before evening the tables and mantels were laden with numerous bouquets and baskets, bearing the cards of their donors.

The Governor Departed.

Governor P. W. McKinney, accompanied by Brigadier-General Charles J. Anderson, Colonel Jo Lane Stern, Colonel Meade Haskins, Colonel C. M. Walker

er of Farmville and Colonel Robert Catlett of Lexington, left on the 12:40 o'clock train yesterday over the Richmond and Danville road for Danville. The gentlemen, with the exception of the Governor, were in full dress uniform, and occupied car No. 108, at the rear of the train. This car is one of the special coaches of the Danville Company, and is fitted up in a splendid manner. Everything is arranged for the comfort of the occupants. Mr. J. S. Potts was present, and personally supervised the departure of the train.

The coach just in front of the gubernatorial car was occupied by the Richmond Light Infantry Blues. There were forty-five men, rank and file, wearing the fatigue uniform, and commanded by Lieutenant Clarence Wyatt. Ten men, detailed for guard duty at the Capitol to-day, did not go with their comrades. Captain Sol Cutchins was too indisposed to accompany his command.

Dinner was served to the Governor and his party while on route, and the Blues provided themselves with luncheon before the train left.

They arrived in Danville at 5:40 o'clock, and Governor McKinney received from the committee of Louisiana veterans the remains of Jefferson Davis, when the funeral train arrived from the South.

THE GUARD MOUNTED.

Details from the Military—Arrivals Organizations Last Night.

The following special order has been issued by Colonel Thomas P. Pollard, commander of Lee Camp:

"Captain Frank W. Cunningham, Company B, First regiment Virginia Infantry, is hereby appointed officer of the day, and will have full charge of the guard around the Capitol during the ceremonies coincident with the reinterment of President Jefferson Davis, and will be obeyed and respected accordingly."

"All officers of the guard will report to him for instructions."

There have been 139 privates detailed for guard duty with five sergeants and six corporals around the Capitol building as follows: Sixty-five privates from the First regiment, ten from the Richmond Light Infantry Blues, thirty from the Ashby Light Horse and Stuart Horse Guard, fifteen from the artillery.

The following officers have been detailed to serve as officers of the guard: Second Lieutenant Thomas H. Starke, of the Howitzers, who was on duty last night from 7 o'clock to midnight; Second Lieutenant E. Euker, of the Stuart Horse Guard, who did duty from midnight until 5 A. M.; Second Lieutenant Charles A. Rose, of the Ashby Light Horse, relieved him at 5 A. M., and will in turn be relieved at 10 A. M. by First Lieutenant James H. Goode, who will be on duty for the balance of the day. Twenty-four men of the guard were on duty at one time around the Capitol building during the night. The posts were relieved every two hours.
